

MISS MELLIAN MEINICK
TO WED PITTSBURG MAN
Miss Mellian Meinick of New York, a daughter of the actress and actress, will marry George H. Stuart of Pittsburgh, Pa., on Feb. 28.
The bride is the daughter of the late Mrs. John C. Meinick, who died last year. She is the only surviving child of the late Mrs.
Meinick. Her parents were well-known stage and screen stars.

Local Plus Church Growth
The First Methodist Church has had a wonderful change in its size and interest since it was built in 1888. It is now larger than the Union Methodist Church and plans are being made to make it even larger. The Methodist Church School No.
2, Miss Mary St. John, and Miss
N. W. Hinsley, appointed to teach in the church school, Misses Conrad, M. L. Jones, and Constantine, of the church, are making the arrangements for the new building. The cost of the new building is estimated at $10,000. The new building will be built on the site of the old church, which is to be demolished. The new church will be larger and more modern than the old one.

Mrs. Santmyer Hostess.
The W. M. A. of the First Methodist Church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Santmyer.
It will be the closing meeting of the year. Officers will be elected.

Delicate Anniversaries
A young political couple, home few hours in time, had a wedding last evening, by Mr. and Mrs. Scottie Connellville. The last was Mrs. M. B. Peacock, of their home in Evansburg. In due course a memento was given.

Daily Fashion Hints

SPRING SUIT

One of the fave old favorites of the Spring suit costume is this straight-lined box jacket. The collar is wide and the jacket is worn over a frock skirt of silk and fastening on the side.

Tan tweed brown silk embroidery and tortoise shell buttons make the costume.

With a long evening being spent outside. A short scheme of clothing has been created of dark blue, white and white make-up consisting of a dark silk blouse.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEB. 28, 1918.

BETTER METHOD OF COLLECTING GASOLINE TAX.

The bill introduced in the Legislature by Representative Henderson providing for a change in the method of collecting the tax on gasoline, will no doubt be favorably acted upon by that body. It has the very decided merit of simplifying the process, as well as reducing the cost of collection. Under the existing law the relatives are required to make monthly returns of the quantity of gasoline sold and to furnish a statement of their gross sales and of their gross receipts.

There are thousands of dealers of this class in the state and the number is constantly increasing. The matter of collecting, filing and consolidating these monthly reports involves a tremendous amount of labor at Harrisburg and places, upon the rollers the burden of paying a tax for every month in the year. Many of the smaller dealers conduct their business without much system hence have no very exact means of knowing how much gasoline they do sell.

All of this goes to make up a very cumbersome system which can be greatly improved, as Mr. Henderson's bill provides. Under his previous bill act, to collect the gasoline would be required to pay for the mailing, in larger quantities and to a smaller number of persons, and maintaining a very complete system of records, the matter of mailing returns and paying the tax quarterly instead of monthly would be very much simplified by placing the responsibility upon the wholesalers alone.

The state is concerned more about securing all the tax which the law requires to be paid on gasoline sold within the state. It is hardly possible that under the present method the returns are not as exact as they should be. That is true in the bulk of the system. That it can be improved and the proposed bill will do so is beyond question.

Mr. Henderson's bill provides a method convenient which is so easy and practicable in application that it ought to be very likely to do.

FIRST PLACE IN BASEBALL.

Now that there's no organization for a league in the greater Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania area, the coming season, and I am optimistic, will thus be provided the local fans to do some enthusiastic "rooting" in the behalf, there is also opportunity for the regular baseball organizations in the city to perform the very important function of getting help for the club.

A real live baseball team, actively supported by the home town, is just as good an advertisement as can be utilized in keeping Coraopolis prominently before the public, not only as a place where claim and walloping sports are catered to, but a town in which the community spirit, good will, and activity in all that pertains to the material advancement and welfare.

The success attending teams of the club or single leagues has been largely dependent upon their organization and support given by the home city. Out in Saint Louis, there has been a notable instance of this. The Chamber of Commerce has taken the livepest kind of interest in the "Brownies" and whenever games are played at home the grandstand and bleachers are filled to capacity with a legal and strenuous bunch of young men. When Christy Mathewson, the new president of the Boston Braves, was tendered a banquet by the Boston Chamber of Commerce the other day, the first thing he said was that the success of the team rested largely with that and taking a much interest in the club as is done by the chamber of commerce.

This ought, therefore, to be accepted as a model for a sufficient organization for our own organization. In closing the Chamber of Commerce, Chamber, and Rotary clubs, along with the various branches of the Connellsville Independents and with the determination to make the kind of organization that would invite the success of the first place of merit will also attain to First Place in Baseball.

And the Music Still More Common.

Northside, Bedford, and North.

They are now a common sight

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into a flu or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers! It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clear white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home plants. It is a safe remedy recommended by doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frostbitten feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35¢ and 65¢ jars and tubes, hospital size, $3.00.

Dispersed Attacks

"For two years my stomach trouble was very bad, my doctor had to inject me up on several occasions when I was in bed with the disease. It took him 10 days to find the trouble, I have been on a diet ever since, having been pronounced in perfect health by a number of physicians. It is a simple case of a pre-disease, but the trouble has continued from the intestinal tract and enlarged the abdominal, which causes a great deal of stomach trouble with flatulence, constipation, diarrhea, etc. One cure will remove the trouble completely. Watching the Child's Voice

I pay great attention to my child's voice. When they whistle I pretend not to hear them. When they cry I am quieted with play that makes them forget to be loud and noisy. At such times I try to put them and myself in a quiet position for a while so often children are allowed to spoil the quality of their voices.

Ruddy Checks—Sparkling Eyes
—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards a Well Known Ohio Physician

Dr. E. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel diseases. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients.

These tablets are wonder workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action. They are easily digested and pass through the system.

If you have pale face, hollow look, dull eyes, pimpls, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling all out of sorts, inactive, you take this tablet of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

PRINTED FABRIC IS TO BE VOGUE

Dresses, Trimmings, Sashes, Linings and Other Accessories of Bright Silk.

SMOCK OUTFITS ARE FADED

There is No Other Type of Frock Which Please Average Woman Better—Suits Almost Any Figure.

The approaching season promises to be one marked by the predominance of printed silks. Last year, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, we had a few of them, and we adopted them sparingly, just a little wary of their brightness. But this season we are in for it and, whether you have planned it or not before the season opens, you probably will have at least one printed dress if you have not managed to adopt trimmings of printed silk, masses of printed ribbons, things of printed brocades and many other brilliantly patterned accessories.

The vogue for printed silks in new, and women as a rule have not become accustomed to them. Fortunately the designers have made samples which cannot help but be followed, for they are inspiring. In the models that have already been created (though there are, but a few of them) there is not an extra whit nor jot of trimming or decoration; there is not one unnecessary edge or lapel. When there is a print, in the category of the most perfect fashions, that is all there is to the design. The print alone is the thing.

For all sorts and conditions of frocks they are being used, from the simple morning dresses to those more elaborate creations that can be worn for the most formal evening occasion, and for every event during the hours between it is possible to find a printed silk that will be effective and interesting.

These prints are helping to make the American woman's dress a more individual and characteristic thing, for a woman in a print that is not in harmony with her personality might just as well stay at home and not attempt to shine in the world. On the other hand, if she does at all suit her prints her character she will find her personality expressing itself so much more readily than it could through the medium of plain materials or colors that are intricately put together. The beauty of these prints, after they have been made up, is that they are no extremely simple in line and design. They are the signs of our recent trend toward the elimination of extra decorations.

To Please All Tastes. There are many sorts of printed silks. First come the lighter-weight taftas or radurias, as they are called. They are the smooth variety of silks, and they show the printing in such clear detail that for those whose tastes call for an expression of detail they are eminently suited. Then there are the crepes de chine, which this season are showing the same all-over and small patterns that they had last year, only in more variety. There are, however, other regular little calico prints, with all the softness and delicate quality of silk added to make them the more charming.

The soft pongees are printed georgically; that is, the finely woven silk pongees that have, usually, been bleached to a cream white. The prints of them are patterned with Japanese and Chinese scenes in all the bright tones for which those countries are noted. They look like veritable China plates, for the patterns from those famous bits of pottery seem to have been transferred bodily to the silk which today are a popular art expression. The shantung, or the heavier sort of crepe weaves, are printed, and they have a more or less design all their own, among which the Egyptian motifs hold a prominent place. They, too, are as colorful as can be, but they are done in darker, richer and more telling shades. The designs are repeated continuously, and they make the most formal little pictures across the silk, with one motif following the other in quick succession.

There are printed chiffons, printed georgettes, printed silk silks, printed in fact, every silk that is the least susceptible of printing has been handled in that manner this season. And many which one would never have supposed to be printable are bursting forth, their surfaces completely covered with the most fascinating designs.

With Cherish Patterns. A silk of this character is in the nature of a possession. Once you have really found a pattern that suits, you will want to keep it. As one said, displaying her precious handwoven and printed silks, "I expect to use this, in yours to come, for wall drapes, lamp shade, table cover and what not." And it will make trimmings for future gowns until thus sent it to shores.

The dresses are, perhaps, the prettiest of all the things made from printed silks and this is so, probably, because in a dress there is more space to show the design. There is more room, as it were, over which to spread the idea; not so much possibility of having it tattered and short before it has really begun to bloom. And the dresses, as long been said, are done in anything from morning frocks to evening gowns.

A simple sort of a printed silk design is made on a dinner frock. The only point that takes it out of the class of the simple dress is the way the skirt is cut into circular pieces at the sides. The smocks at either side of the waistline are put there just to break the flowing lines in a more or less decorative manner.

Smooth Dresses Liked. The simple little smock dresses are, after all, the favorites of all. We find the designers making them again this season with the same avidity that they put into the task last summer. And there is no type of frock which suits the average woman better than this one. She has everything in her favor, for it can be provided with extra fullness to suit the full figure or it can be as slim and scant as can be for others.

Some of the dresses made of printed silk are finely plaited, and this process is intended to give workmanlike and artistic a material that far as the pattern is concerned, it does not in the least seem to be interrupted. You must understand, however, that the plaitings are the narrowest sort of lines that can be imagined.

CASEY CLUB LOSES FIRST GAME OF SEASON; LOWLY B. & O. TEAM DOES JOB

"ED" HANNIGAN STARS

The Baltimore & Ohio "basketball express," with "Basketball" Edward Hannigan at the throttle, and every member of the crew helping to keep up steam, ran a record time at the start of the City League game with the Casey Club at the Pritchard Hall last night but just like the B. & O. boat, but just like the B. & O. boat, the quintet "got there" and finished one point ahead of the league leaders. It was a case of the lowliest defeating the mightiest in the City League.

It had been predicted that the railroaders would prove a "hard horse" but few took the forecast seriously and as a result only a handful of good old faithful basketball fans saw the game. They were a "thousand times rewarded" for turning out on the bad night according to their own words.

The Clerk free did not seem able to get on his feet when the clash got under way but displaying the same alacrity on tempest that has characterized the team since the first of the season started at every opportunity and came away with every ounce of glory that could be wrung from the contest. The B. & O. proved beyond all doubt that it is to be contended with during the remainder of the year. The team meets St. Vincent Thursday and from a previous expert on the Green organization know what it will be against. The Leavenworth club won a previous game by a mere four points after having been beaten by 15 points last week.

At the close of the first quarter the Caseys were riding high on top of an 18-point margin, the score being 13-2. The half ended with this gap slightly cut, the result being 14-17.

The second half saw new fight in Hannigan, 14 out of 17. Referee—Wall the railroaders. In some manner a new method of playing developed and the Caseys fought for every point gained, scoring only three goals in the half, compared to four for their opponents. Solsen, who had caused four field goals in the opening half, failed to locate the basket once. On the B. & O. team, aside from Hannigan, no man scored more than one goal in the entire clash. He made three during the first half and then kept his organization in the running in the latter period by adding three more.

Five minutes before the game ended there was a time-out. The team never had a five-point lead and when play was resumed immediately advanced this lead to nine points. No one can expect to see the B. & O. win.

Hannigan's basket from the corner of the floor added punch to the railroader's offensive. With 20 seconds to go the Caseys still maintained a three-point lead. The ball was passed to Hannigan and he took a step toward his basket. As he shot a Casey player made a desperate plunge to prevent the score and was guilty of a personal foul. The ball went through the net and counted, putting the railroaders into the lead.

Hannigan stepped to the free line and made both attempts. The game ended and the railroaders had won by a scant point.

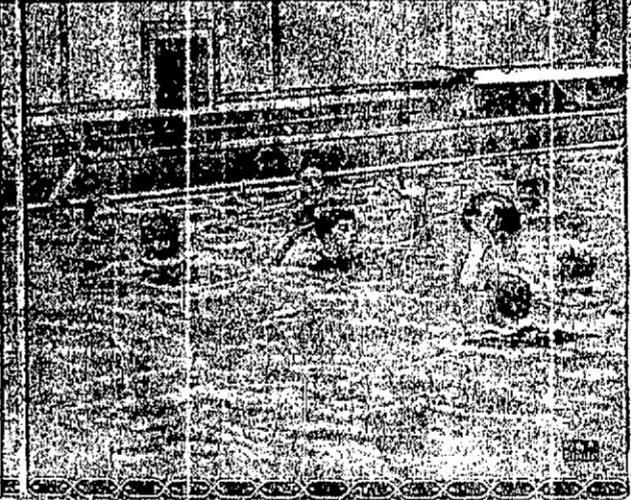

The line-up: B. & O.—Casey Club—Hannigan 6, Solsen 4, Small 3, Campbell 2, Lester 2, White 1, Pritchard 1, Lester 1, George 1, Pritchard 1, Pritchard 1, Substitutions—Buttermore for Pritchard, Pritchard for Campbell, White for Lester.

Field goals—Hannigan 6, Solsen 4, Henry 2, Campbell 2, Lester 2, White 1, Pritchard 1, Fisher 1, Small 1, Francis 1, George 1, Pritchard 1, Substitutions—Buttermore for Pritchard, Pritchard for Campbell, White for Lester.

Free throws—Hannigan 6, Solsen 4, Henry 2, Campbell 2, Lester 2, White 1, Pritchard 1, Fisher 1, Small 1, Francis 1, George 1, Pritchard 1, Substitutions—Buttermore for Pritchard, Pritchard for Campbell, White for Lester.

Foul goals—Solsen 7 out of 10. Referee—Wall.

BASKETBALL IS PLAYED IN WATER

The latest in sports is water basketball. The new game which was introduced in Boston a short time ago has taken the Hub city by storm and is nearly every public swimming pool in the city teams can be seen in action. Six men play on a side and the same rules governing regulation basketball are abided by. Players can swim underneath the water in jockeying for position, but no unfair tactics can be employed.

FRITZ MOLLWITZ ON MARKET

Rumored on Pacific Coast That Sacramento Would Dispose of Star First Baseman.

A coast league rumor is that Sacramento will dispose of Fritz Mollwitz and three clubs in the league are said to be making bids of money for the player, the cash offered being $10,000. They value Fritz highly in the Coast league. He cost less than that when he was being shifted about in the major.

COACH FISHER HAS NO FEARS

Former Yankee Pitcher Announces His Earnings Exceed Salary In American League.

Pity the poor former professional baseball star who needs must retire and depend upon coaching for a living.

Ray Fisher, once with the Yankees, announces that his earnings for nine months at the University of Michigan the past year, combined with three months in semi-professional clubs, have netted him a sum in excess of anything he ever earned in the big leagues. Jeff Tamm, director of baseball at Dartmouth, has the same kind of story to tell.

B. & O. Meets St. Vincent And Frat Meets The Legion

Tomorrow night there will be two more good games in the City League and if sport lovers in Connellsville want to help keep the city on the basketball map and also to spend an evening watching some real flour contests, it would be well not to miss the show.

The opening contest will be at 7:45 o'clock sharp between the Baltimore B. & O. who defeated the Casey Club last night and the St. Vincent team of Leisenring.

It's the Cut That Counts

The tailor who goes by the book may be good enough for a ready-made clothes factory, but to cut and fit clothes to the measure and taste of every personality, requires the art skill, taste and judgment of a portrait painter.

When you come here for clothes, you, for the time, are our only model. How we've measured and fitted some other man has nothing to do with you. Each person is a problem, separate and distinct from all others. We center all our skill, thought and effort on clothes that will best suit you as you see yourself and as we see you. You know tastes differ—we are not wedded to any one set model—we fit men's minds as well as build their clothes.

Come and see what we have in the way of Spring suitings. Getting aquainted may be left all of us.

Now is the opportune time to place your order for your Easter Suit.

THE ONE BIG SHOE SALE

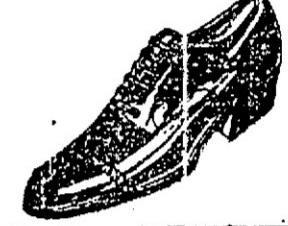

That Everybody Has Been Waiting For

Sale Starts Thurs., Mar. 1 and Ends Sat., Mar. 17

Opportunity's latch string is now hanging out at this home of Good Shoes. We're going to shrivel the prices on all of our shoes, strap slippers, oxfords, and pumps to such an extent that every dollar bill will appear to be twice its ordinary value.

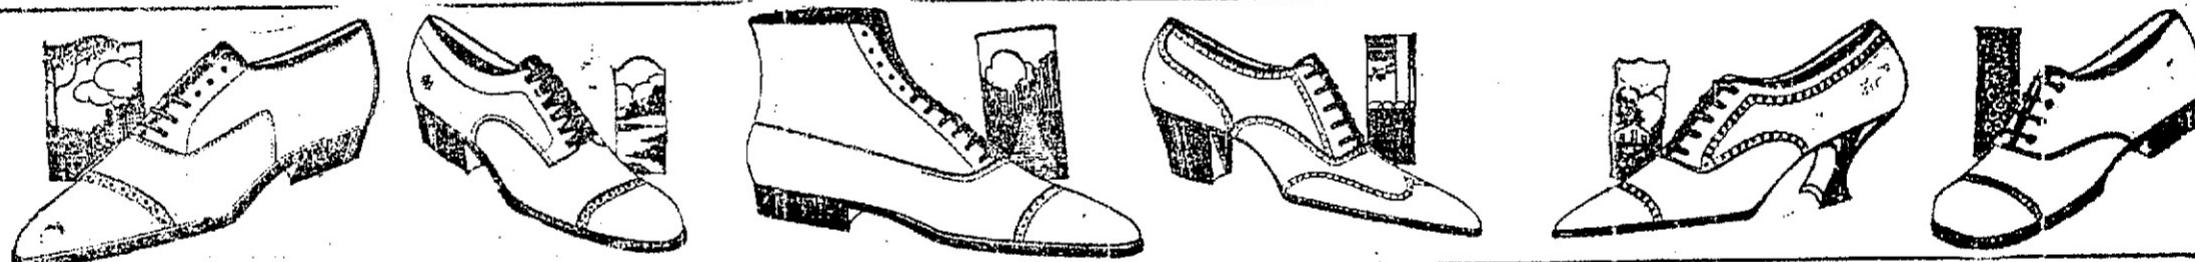

Come in and see what we are doing, and then you'll know all about it. Shoes, Oxfords, Pumps, Strap Slippers, for men, women and children—the best we have or have had during the past season, all must go at once—a loss to us—a benefit for you.

THE REASON OF IT?

We don't propose to carry shoes from one season to the next—it's not good business to do so. We want to show you fresh shoes next season, we want the room and we can use the money. Here's how we propose to get it! Our prices will tell the story.

Come soon before the lines of sizes are broken. Early buyers will fare the best.

NEARLY HALF OF ALL WOMEN WORK

Seek Not Luxuries, but Necessities. Census Bureau Shows.

INTERESTING FACTS ADDUCED

Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor Makes Thorough Study of Family Status of Women Breadwinners in One Representative City—Necessity Rather Than Desire for Career Seem to Guide the Woman Workers, In Conclusion Drawn.

A ray of light has just been shed on one widely discussed question about the woman worker. It is often asserted that a large proportion of married women now work for wages and salaries, and that many of them do so in order to buy luxuries. The criticism is made that these women, whose husbands could support them, are holding positions needed by men and single girls.

The person making a statement of this sort always glibly quotes at least one case of a wife who works, so that she can spend her vacation at an expensive resort, and who is brought to work by her husband in a paternal manner. But these outstanding cases—what percentage of married women do they really represent?

And, to take another controversy, do the majority of working women work for themselves?—on themselves, or else they have dependents and responsibilities, as it is assumed that the majority of men workers have?

The minimum wage is supposed to give a woman a living wage for herself alone. No thought is given to the possibility of the working girl having dependents. And yet, it is exceedingly just, as matters are today, to assume that she has no one but herself to take care of, and that therefore her this pay envelope really equals a man's fat one?

These questions are argued back and forth, but facts have always been hard to locate. There has never been a national table showing the personal and family histories and assets of men workers, and no such table of women workers has been made in the last 20 years, so that the controversy abut upon women workers cannot be settled at present.

But just to show what the tendency is, the woman's bureau of the Department of Labor has made a study of the family status of women breadwinners in one representative city, Pensacola, Fla.

Census Data Used.

The woman's bureau went to the census bureau and obtained permission to use the punch cards of Pensacola working women for statistical study. This was a departure. Ordinarily the census records are used only by the census bureau. The bureau collects an enormous mass of valuable information, and from all this information it makes up certain statistical facts and makes up tables that will be of most interest to the country. Funds are limited and time is limited. The employees work at high speed to make up tables of manufactures, population, cities, occupations, and so on. Then the bulk of the material is left in the census files.

These files contain data on the economic status of families that would be of great value to all sorts of social welfare organizations, to city boards and local governments. But the census bureau has no funds allotted for publishing the statistics. The woman's bureau, however, being a section of the Labor department, made an arrangement to have access to the records of one city, with interesting results.

Pensacola was chosen because it was large enough for statistics to be reliable, and yet it was too large for the bureau to study with the funds available.

Nearly 10,000 women work for wages in Pensacola. This means that nearly half of the women in that city, and probably in many other cities, are wage earners.

What is more significant is the trend of the times, for 100,000 of the women work outside of the home.

If you think back only a few generations to the time when both father and mother worked about the home, doctor, or in the kitchen, baker, tailor, cobbler, doctor, and cook, you realize that women are only a few steps behind men in having the power to make a living.

A more complete attention soon tells the men of all houses to run businesses and to get off the floor. And so we see that we find the women away from their home and in service are here also.

That they are being drawn into service in larger and larger numbers is indicated by the statistics.

That it is shown that one-half of the women workers in Pensacola are or have been married.

The report further shows that 20 per cent of the 4,000 married women workers have husbands who are employed. What is more, nearly three-fourths of the women who are or have been married never fail to care for, and while in most cases the families are small, the children are young. More than half of the working mothers of Pensacola care for them every day or every other day.
